THREE FACULTIES WILL WELCOME VISITORS

The faculties of Agriculture and Forestry, Engineering, and Science will open their doors to the public next weekend in a jointly-sponsored open house. The open house will be held Saturday, March 8 from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m.

Displays prepared by staff and students will be based on the theme, "Scientists at work for you." The staff and students also will provide demonstrations on projects being carried out in their departments. Exhibits will include computer and laboratory demonstrations, wind-tunnel testing, and slide shows.

Free parking will be provided in Stadium Carpark, Windsor Carpark, and all campus parking zones designated by a letter of the alphabet (excluding the lot at the Jubilee Auditorium). Permit holders are encouraged to be tolerant if they find their spaces occupied the day of the open house.

One of the Department of Entomology displays at the March 8 open house will be "Insect sculpture," photographs of insects under the scanning electron microscope. The photograph (at right) is a view of flea's head and mouth. The "Insect sculpture" display will be located in 275 Agriculture Building.

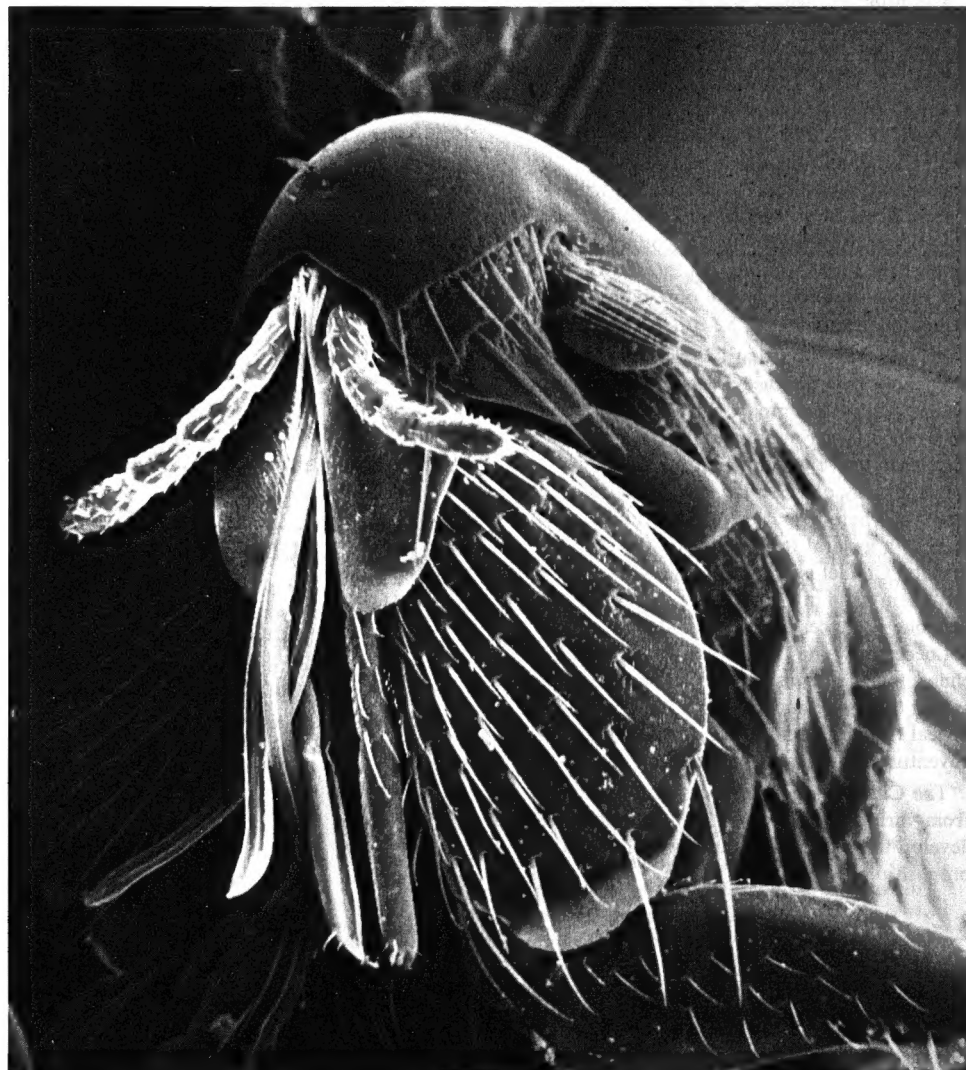

PURDUE UTILITIES SAVINGS PAID TO STAFF

The following article appeared in a recent issue of the periodical Interim.

At Purdue University, a drive to economize in utilities costs paid off handsomely in 1973-74 according to Vice-President and Treasurer Frederick R. Ford. What these savings actually meant to faculty and staff were pay raises during a year when the university's funds were critically short.

Purdue employees and students co-operated to burn 17 percent less coal, to use 10.6 percent less heating steam, 12.1 percent less chilled water for air conditioning and 15.7 percent less water, and to cut electrical usage by 6.7 percent.

By reducing light levels in buildings to 100 foot-candles, Purdue reduced the amount of coal burned by 452 tons and concurrently reduced the production of sulphur dioxide pollutants by 11.8 tons. The war on waste included installation of more than 500 decals on doors where special air-conditioning needs exist, and the continuation of hundreds of time clocks to assist in the most efficient use of fresh-air ventilation systems. The success of the program, according to Ford, is a result of people taking the time to be careful, to shut doors and close windows, to turn off lights when not in use, and to schedule anticipated large electrical loads during off-peak hours whenever possible.

Another important aspect of Purdue's savings program was the sale of salvage which grossed $42,700 in its first year. A second windfall has been recycling. Old computer cards brought $23 per ton last year from scrap dealers; the price is now up to $175 per ton, and Purdue estimates gross sales of used computer cards will bring in $15,000 this year. Purdue anticipates that 70 tons of paper will be recycled, 85 tons of computer card stock and 180 tons of scrap metal and wire, to bring in as much as $35,000.

CITADEL TO OPEN SECOND STAGE

Citadel Two, the Citadel Theatre's second stage, has been created upstairs at 10018 102 Street—two buildings south of the main theatre—where there is now an attractive 100-seat intimate theatre.

The program, which will be 75 percent Canadian, opens March 19 with a double bill. Citadel Theatre director John Neville will be joined by Tom Peacocke, Chairman of the Department of Drama, in George Bernard Shaw's The Extermination of Jesus Christ; and the other half of the double bill, which runs to March 29, will feature Scott Swan and Allan Lysell in Babel Rap, a satirical comedy by Vancouver playwright John Lazarus. All the shows will run in the evenings at 8 p.m. with an admission charge of $3, $2 for students.

John Neville says that Citadel Two is happening now because "when we move into our new theatre complex in 1976 there will be a much larger auditorium, with many more seats than we've got now. At the moment we've no way of widening our audience . . . we've nowhere to put them." He thinks there is a general feeling around the city that the Citadel is a kind of club—that it's for "them" and not "us." "The sort of things that one produces on the second stage are not necessarily the things that would get their chance on the mainstage in that they may not appeal to a wide audience, but [they will] appeal to a young audience, a more adventurous audience, perhaps . . ."

The Citadel hopes that next year funding from various agencies will be available to help develop the second stage into a permanent proposition.

A.G. PERRONI
1925-1975

Amedeo G. Perroni, Associate Professor of Business Policies, died Monday, February 17, 1975 after a lengthy illness. Born in Alexandria, Egypt, Dr. Perroni was educated at Victoria College in Alexandria, at the University of Toronto (BA, MBA) and at the University of Washington (PhD). He joined the staff of The University of Alberta as an Assistant Professor in 1962 and became an Associate Professor six years later. He was fluent in English, French, Italian, Greek, and Arabic.

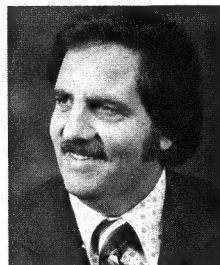

Dr. Perroni taught courses in the Department of Extension as well as in the Faculty of Business Administration and Commerce.

FACULTY CLUB MANAGER TO RETIRE

Mrs. D. Barlow, who has served as Manager of the Faculty Club since 1965, officially retires February 28; however, she will act as consultant to the Club for the next several months during the familiarization period of the new manager, William G. Parker.

Mrs. Barlow

Mrs. Barlow has given dedicated service to the Club over the past 10 years and has been instrumental in making the Club the success it is. Rod Banks, President of the Faculty Club, says members will miss Mrs. Barlow but can take satisfaction in the fact "that she is leaving the Club in excellent order."

Mr. Parker takes up his appointment on March 1, 1975. He is a native of Saskatchewan and has had several years' experience in private club management as well as management experience in private industry.

Reno Bossetti, Assistant Deputy Minister of the Program Services Division of the Department of Advanced Education, will speak to the participants at a noon luncheon. The Articulation Committee of General Faculties Council is arranging the conference.

- J. Keirstead, a consultant to the Metric Commission, spoke and gave a multi-media presentation to a group of educators from all levels of education from the city and its environs. The Department of Industrial and Vocational Education, with the co-operation of the Chairman of the Interdepartmental Committee on Metric Conversion, sponsored Mr. Keirstead's visit.

NOTICES

PROFESSIONAL EXPENSE ALLOWANCE

The following notice has been received from J.A. Peat, Office of the Comptroller.

Members of the academic staff eligible for a Professional Expense Allowance have recently been provided with claims forms to be submitted prior to the deadline of July 31, 1975.

Persons eligible are reminded that the maximum entitlement for the academic year ending June 30, 1975 is $170. An agreement between the Board of Governors and the AASUA provides for a change, effective in the subsequent 1975-76 academic year, to a maximum of $200.

Payments up to the maximum amount of $170 on the current year, will commence in May 1975 as claims are received.

KILLAM MEMORIAL PROFESSOR

The Selection Committee would like to remind all individuals and departments that nominations of distinguished persons to fill the vacant Killam Memorial Chair are still being accepted.

Nominations should be sent to Henry Kreisel, Vice-President (Academic), University Hall.

SUMMER FIELD SCHOOL IN ARCHAEOLOGY

The Department of Anthropology will offer two six-week sessions of its archaeology field school this summer (Anthropology 495—Spring and Summer Sessions). The first will begin on or about May 1 (depending on the weather); the second about July 1. Enrolment will be limited to 12 students per session. The course carries six points of credit. Tuition fees will be $141 payable to the University upon registration and $100 will be payable to the Field School to partially cover the cost of subsistence and field equipment.

The school will be held at Fort Victoria, 80 miles northeast of Edmonton and 16 miles south of Smoky Lake. Participants will receive training in excavation, mapping, profile drawing, photography, use of survey instruments, analysis, and reconstruction. They will be housed on the site and meals will be provided.

Further information may be obtained from David Lubell, Department of Anthropology, 432-3879.

VISITING SPEAKERS

A visitor to Edmonton this week, for the period February 28 to March 5 inclusive, is the Venerable Thich Man Da La, President of the Committee for Aid to the Orphans in Vietnam (South), under the auspices of the Association of Vietnamese Buddhists Abroad. Her sponsors are the Voice of Women in Burnaby, British Columbia, and some private individuals, who are anxious that she should return home with a substantial contribution towards the Orphans' Fund. Man Da La will be giving three public lectures while in Edmonton, two of them on campus.

The Edmonton Film Society, the departments of English and Comparative Literature, and the Faculty of Arts are jointly sponsoring a visit to Edmonton by William Cadbury, Professor of English, film critic, and teacher of the "Film as literature" course at the University of Oregon. The three-day visit will be highlighted by the showing of Josef von Sternberg's film biography of Catherine the Great, The Scarlet Empress, about which Professor Cadbury will lecture the following day, and a seminar dealing with the teaching of film courses.

Details of all the events are listed in "This Week and Next."

EXTENSION COURSES IN GEOLOGY

Registrations are being accepted in two geology courses offered by the Department of Extension and beginning March 4.

"Fundamental principles of geology" is an eight-session course conducted by Ken Babcock, Assistant Professor of Geology, which will cover rocks and minerals and the processes which form them; processes acting within the earth; geologic processes which have acted to modify the earth's surface; the Athabasca oil sands; and geologic studies in urban planning. Class hours are 7:30 to 10 p.m. and the fee is $35.

"Rock and mineral identification" is a 10-session course, dealing specifically with rocks and minerals, their importance, uses, and occurrences. The course will be conducted by Don Taylor, a research assistant in the Department of Geology and former curator of geology at the Provincial Museum. Class hours are 7:30 to 9:30 p.m., and the fee is $35.

Further information and registration forms are available in 228 Corbett Hall, 432-5061.

YOGA TRAINING

The University Yoga Club is offering lessons in relaxation, and facial exercises to aid one's complexion. Lessons may be arranged by appointment. The University's staff and students are charged at a concessional rate.

Interested persons are asked to telephone the Keep-fit Yoga Club at 439-7897 in the evenings or write to the club at Box 120, Sub PO 11, The University of Alberta, Edmonton.

CUSO OPPORTUNITIES OVERSEAS

Canadians with various skills are being asked to share their expertise with the people of the developing nations of Africa, Asia, Latin America, the Caribbean, or the South Pacific.

Canadian University Service Overseas (CUSO) is offering two-year contracts to suitable persons with transportation costs paid and with medical, dental, and life insurance provided. Diplomas, degrees, certificates, or journeyman's papers are usually required and some jobs also require two or more years' experience. Couples may be accepted if suitable positions can be found for both. Families with school age children can sometimes be accepted also. Orientation and training are given where needed. Salaries conform to approximately what local personnel would receive in the host country. Currently needed are: civil engineers and technologists; carpenters and masons; audiovisual technicians; surveyors; metallurgists; industrial and electronics engineers and technologists; accountants and auditors (CA); economists; and business administration graduates with either a bachelor's or a master's degree.

An information session is to be held at 8 p.m. Tuesday, March 11 in 129 Education Centre North. Further information may be obtained from Mrs. Carrol Burkard, 432-4145.

CUSO SAYS 'THANKS' FOR SUPPORT

The local Canadian University Service Overseas (CUSO) committee received more than $900 in donations during 1974, in addition to the $893 raised during the November book sale. A statement of appreciation has been extended by committee member Carrol Burkard "to all staff and students who supported the book sale and/or gave privately to CUSO."
